Wilkomme bisàmmme*

When the sky is filled with stars on a beautiful winter night, enveloping the bell tower of the cathedral in its singular luminosity, then the spirit of Christmas floats over Colmar and its region.

When the houses, monuments and chalets of the Christmas markets are illuminated, then the magic of the festive season permeates the city, like a path of light guiding your steps from market to market.

When your senses are gently awakened to the flavours and scents of Christmas, to the sweet smells of spices and bredala, then it is all the warmth of Alsace that warms your heart.

When the squares and markets are alive with life, then comes the pleasure of sharing and exchanging, around a mulled wine and at the bend of a meeting with a passionate craftsman or, why not, Saint Nicolas in person.

When finally, an angel passes over Colmar, announcing joy, happiness and peace, then yes, the soul of Christmas is here, in Colmar.

A soul that lives on thanks to the respect of our traditions and our Alsatian know-how, thanks to an unwavering demand for quality and thanks to the will to share this strong, unique and unifying Alsatian art of living during this Christmas period.

Welcome to Colmar and its region and merry Christmas!

Christmas characters in Alsace

The good and generous Saint Nicholas

On 6 December, children and adults alike gather to cheer on St Nicholas. Wearing his mitre, holding his crozier and wearing a long red or purple coat, he rewards the most deserving children. With several legends and miracles to his credit, Bishop St Nicholas of Myra is the protector of children, widows, the weak and prisoners. He was the only one to neutralise the dreaded Hans Trapp, putting an end to his terrible deeds.

The scary and grumpy Hans Trapp

It is said that in Northern Alsace, at Berwarstein Castle, Lord Hans von Trotta used to spread terror. Hans Trapp got his bad reputation from this malevolent lord. With his imposing build, his cantankerous air, his shaggy hair and beard, he threatens to carry off disobedient children in his big bag and abandon them forever in a dark forest.

These two characters are traditionally inseparable when they pass by and hand out rewards or punishments to children. The little ones should be well behaved!

The sweet and angelic Christkindel

It is rumoured that on December 24th at midnight many miracles happen... Oxen and donkeys start talking, trees are covered with flowers until the twelfth stroke of midnight. But who is the author of these miracles? Christkindel? Recognisable by her fine features, her veil and her long white dress, she is wearing a crown topped by four candles. With her light she shows a path of hope to the children terrorised by Hans Trapp.

Alsatian culture

An ever-present identity and heritage!

The flag

Alsace wears its colours high thanks to the "Rot un Weiss"!

This regional flag unites the two emblems of the Haut-Rhin and the Bas-Rhin, and unites the Alsatians under a single banner. The colours of the Counts of Werd, red and white, are added to 6 yellow crowns symbolising the aspirations of the Habsburg dynasty from Alsace.

The Alsatian language

The result of a tumultuous historical heritage, Alsatian is still spoken today. Perceptible to German speakers, this unique dialect brings the warmth and authenticity characteristic of Alsace. Dear to the Alsatians, it is spoken at school, with family and friends over Stämmtisch!*

More than different regional costumes were listed throughout Alsace!

The costumes

Dressed for festivals, ceremonies and folk dances, these genuine "haute-couture" pieces were once used to represent the different regions of Alsace. However, in popular culture, a traditional version from Strasbourg is still the most widespread.

The men's suit consists of a white shirt tied at the neck with a black braid, a red double-breasted waistcoat and a set of black trousers and jacket, all decorated with gold buttons representing the man's wealth.

The female costume is more elaborate. It consists of a white blouse often decorated with lace, a black embroidered apron and worn over a skirt mainly in red or blue, indicating the woman's religion. Many accessories are added, such as a bib, corselet, stockinet or shawl.

The traditional Alsatian headdress, consisting of a black cap with a long strip of black fabric sewn onto it, forming a knot above the head and falling down the back, is a further highlight of the outfit.

the pride of the Alsation vineyard

The lights and colours of the vineyards provide the charming village of Turckheim with an aura of serenity. Its remarkable and typically Alsatian architectural heritage as well as its lively and enduring traditions make it an unmissable stopover.

The legend of the dragon of Turckheim

"A long time ago, when the Rhine Valley formed a large lake, a stray dragon emerged from the waters to settle on the shore at Letzenberg, near the present-day village of Turckheim. Tired and soothed by the gentle tranquillity of the place, he dozed off. The sun took advantage of his rest to shine more and more brightly to melt his scales. A battle of fire broke out between the dragon and the shining star. The dragon was angry and spat flames at the burning sun, and eventually its blood was spilled all around the place called Drachenloch, or dragon's hole. Centuries later, once the waters had receded, people planted vines on this beautiful hill. The land, fertilized by the dragon's blood, gave birth to one of the Alsace Grands Crus: the BRAND."

Time to eat! A work of art on the plate...

Discover Alsace's great culinary talents. Three renowned starred chefs run their restaurant in the heart of Colmar and offer you a tasting experience in an elegant setting.

"Taste above all" for Chef Lefebvre at L'Atelier du Peintre (1* Michelin).

"An evolving cuisine that makes local products vibrate" for Chef Girardin (1* Michelin) in his eponymous restaurant.

"Local products and flavours from around the world" for Chef Schillinger at JY'S (2* Michelin).

Taste In the kitchen of Mamama*

The love of quality is not only cultivated by our starred chefs and many gourmet addresses give pride of place to "home-made" food. From the traditional winstub to the restaurant that carries the flavours of Mamama, Colmar is full of must-see addresses. Come and discover the authentic flavours of Alsatian dishes or enjoy a gourmet break at the covered market.

Tasty Alsatian winter...

In this enchanting and gourmet period, winter flavours are numerous. Each of them, whether savoury or sweet, will bring you a welcome comfort.

Before sitting down to eat, warming up with friends with a glass of mulled wine, white or red, is an essential step to get you into the Christmas mood. With the family, the children will enjoy an inimitable hot apple juice!

A festive Alsatian table will offer you the most delicate dishes such as the foie gras terrine, whose regional origin dates back to the 17th century!

But Alsace is also an invitation to conviviality and sharing around warm dishes: the unavoidable sauerkraut or b  ckeoffe whose smells of cooking can only stimulate your appetite!

In these delicious scents, you will be conquered by the bewitching smells of spices: cloves, cinnamon, aniseed... Spices which make the richness and sweetness of our desserts in particular.

Take a bite out of a tasty gingerbread or lebkuche with its eye-catching shapes and decorations. Give in to the sweet temptation of the famous bredala. Do you dare to experiment with each of the possible varieties of these small typical Alsatian biscuits?

Dried fruits are also invited on our tables and in our pastries: berawecka or stollen will happily accompany an infusion during a generous snack.

Finally, celebrate St. Nicholas' Day by biting into a manala, a little man made of brioche; or even the New Year by tasting a Nei johr's wegala, literally a "little brioche for the New Year".

DID YOU KNOW?

There are more than a hundred kinds of Bredalas (cookies)

Land of Grands Crus !

Wettolsheim, the leading wine-producing commune in the Haut-Rhin, has two Grands Crus: Steingrubler and Pfersigberg. These two Grands Crus produce excellent "late harvest" and "Sélection Grains Nobles" wines.

Emblematic of the Alsace Wine Route, Turckheim is a land whose history is intimately linked to the wine. Its Grand Cru Brand benefits from an exceptional amount of sunshine.

In Ingersheim, the Grand Cru Florimont is characterised by its size and generosity. Situated on south-facing slopes and protected by the Vosges mountains, this Grand Cru is blessed with privileged climatic conditions. Not forgetting the famous Hengst from Wintzenheim.

More than just a monument!

From guided tours inviting you to discover the 900-year history of the fortress, to dramatised tours with a medieval character, via themed tours, workshops for families and various events... There are many opportunities for unexpected discoveries at Haut-Kœnigsbourg castle!
