Wilkomme bisàmmme*

When the sky is filled with stars on a beautiful winter night, enveloping the bell tower of the cathedral in its singular luminosity, then the spirit of Christmas floats over Colmar and its region.

When the houses, monuments and chalets of the Christmas markets are illuminated, then the magic of the festive season permeates the city, like a path of light guiding your steps from market to market.

When your senses are gently awakened to the flavours and scents of Christmas, to the sweet smells of spices and bredala, then it is all the warmth of Alsace that warms your heart.

When the squares and markets are alive with life, then comes the pleasure of sharing and exchanging, around a mulled wine and at the bend of a meeting with a passionate craftsman or, why not, Saint Nicolas in person.

When finally, an angel passes over Colmar, announcing joy, happiness and peace, then yes, the soul of Christmas is here, in Colmar.

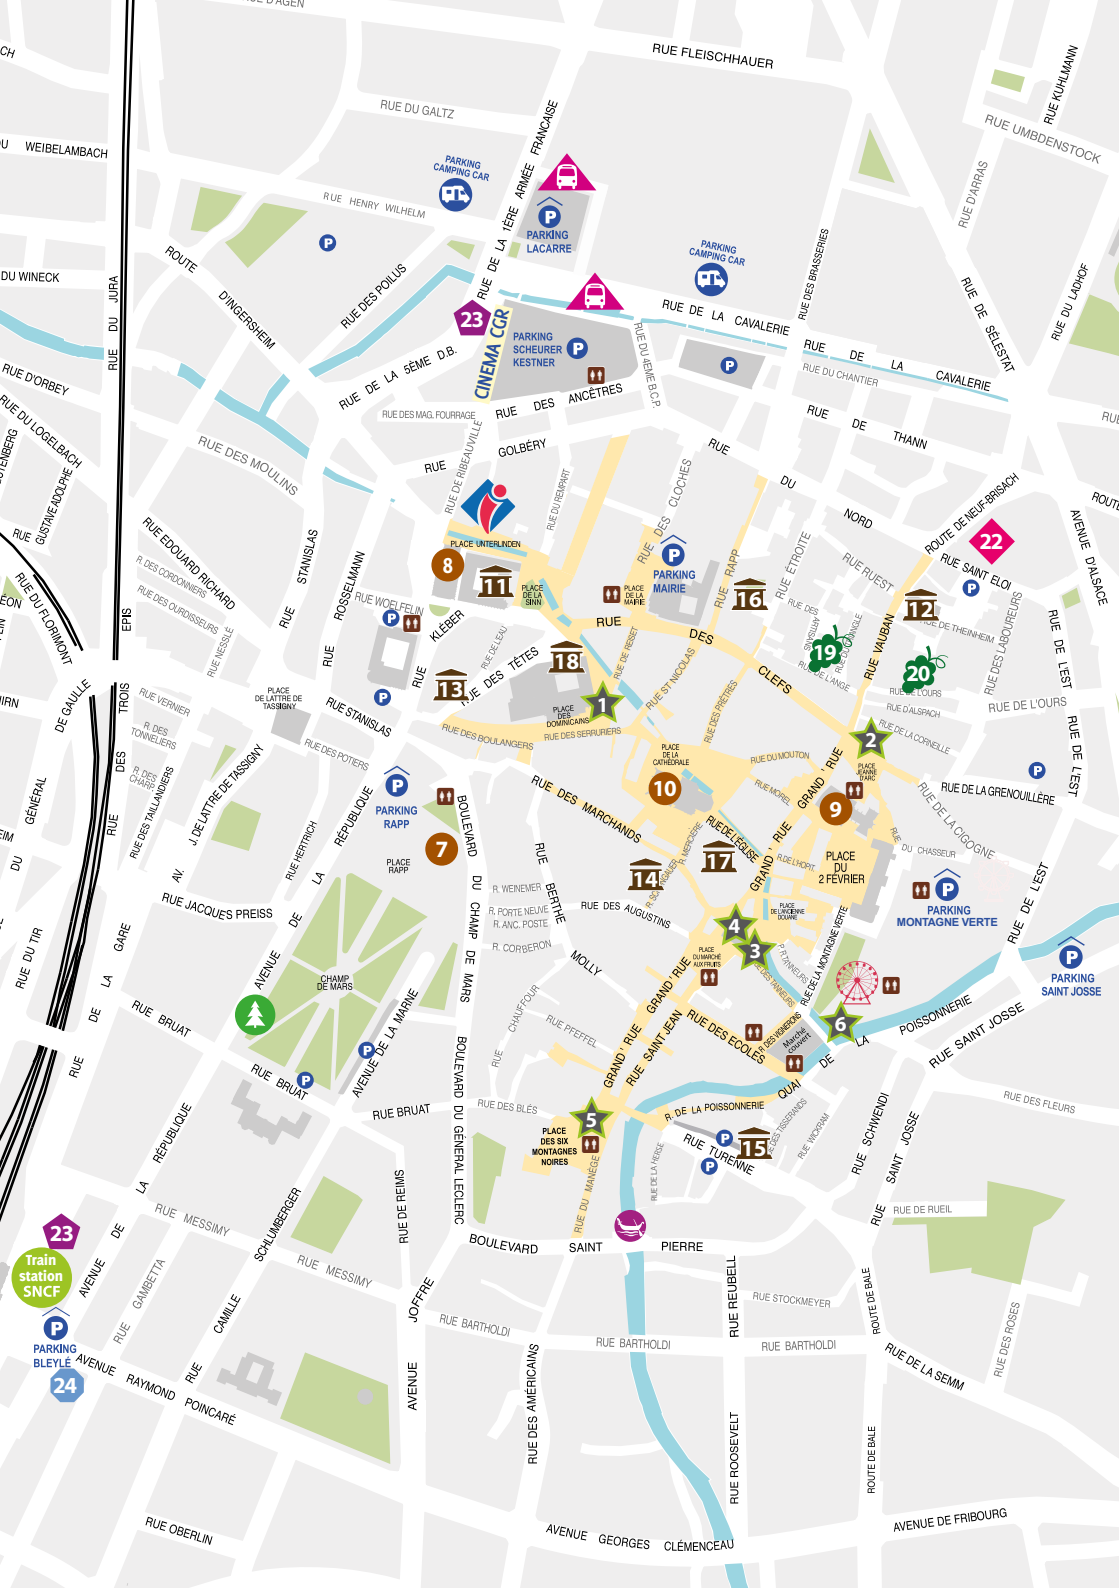

A soul that lives on thanks to the respect of our traditions and our Alsatian know-how, thanks to an unwavering demand for quality and thanks to the will to share this strong, unique and unifying Alsatian art of living during this Christmas period.

Welcome to Colmar and its region and merry Christmas!

Mechanical nativity scene

Among the exceptional cots to see or to revisit, the one from the parish of Sainte-Marie in Colmar, exhibited in the eponymous church, is worth the trip. Its scenography illustrates the Nativity in motion by means of automatons and has no equivalent in France, or even beyond its borders.

Colmar, an exceptional architectural heritage

The vast pedestrian zone of old Colmar, classified as a "safeguarded sector", displays a rich heritage, both civil and religious, perfectly preserved, from the Middle Ages to the 18th century, making it a real open-air museum.

- 1 • The "Little Venice" district with its fascinating colourful facades.
- 2 • The Tanneurs district and its large houses with white facades.
- 3 • The majestic Saint Martin Collegiate Church, whose yellow Rouffach sandstone reflects the sun's rays in a shimmering fashion.

- 4 • The Pfister House, Renaissance period, with a beautiful corner oriel and rich wall paintings.
- 5 • The majestic House of Heads with its 106 face sculptures.
- 6 • The Koifhus, an emblematic place in the history of wine, whose roof offers a bewitching visual spectacle.

Christmas characters

in Alsace

The good and generous Saint Nicholas

On 6 December, children and adults alike gather to cheer on St Nicholas. Wearing his mitre, holding his crozier and wearing a long red or purple coat, he rewards the most deserving children. With several legends and miracles to his credit, Bishop St Nicholas of Myra is the protector of children, widows, the weak and prisoners. He was the only one to neutralise the dreaded Hans Trapp, putting an end to his terrible deeds.

The scary and grumpy Hans Trapp

It is said that in Northern Alsace, at Berwarstein Castle, Lord Hans von Trotta used to spread terror. Hans Trapp got his bad reputation from this malevolent lord. With his imposing build, his cantankerous air, his shaggy hair and beard, he threatens to carry off disobedient children in his big bag and abandon them forever in a dark forest.

These two characters are traditionally inseparable when they pass by and hand out rewards or punishments to children. The little ones should be well behaved!

The sweet and angelic Christkindel

It is rumoured that on December 24th at midnight many miracles happen... Oxen and donkeys start talking, trees are covered with flowers until the twelfth stroke of midnight. But who is the author of these miracles? Christkindel? Recognisable by her fine features, her veil and her long white dress, she is wearing a crown topped by four candles. With her light she shows a path of hope to the children terrorised by Hans Trapp.

Alsatian culture

An ever-present identity and heritage!

The flag

Alsace wears its colours high thanks to the "Rot un Wiss"!

This regional flag unites the two emblems of the Haut-Rhin and the Bas-Rhin, and unites the Alsatians under a single banner. The colours of the Counts of Werd, red and white, are added to 6 yellow crowns symbolising the aspirations of the Habsburg dynasty from Alsace.

The Alsatian language

The result of a tumultuous historical heritage, Alsatian is still spoken today. Perceptible to German speakers, this unique dialect brings the warmth and authenticity characteristic of Alsace. Dear to the Alsatians, it is spoken at school, with family and friends over Stämmtisch!*

I AM LEARNING ALSATIAN!

*STÄMMTISCH

DID YOU KNOW? ?

More than 500

different regional costumes were listed throughout Alsace!

The costumes

Dressed for festivals, ceremonies and folk dances, these genuine "haute-couture" pieces were once used to represent the different regions of Alsace. However, in popular culture, a traditional version from Strasbourg is still the most widespread.

The men's suit consists of a white shirt tied at the neck with a black braid, a red double-breasted waistcoat and a set of black trousers and jacket, all decorated with gold buttons representing the man's wealth.

The female costume is more elaborate. It consists of a white blouse often decorated with lace, a black embroidered apron and worn over a skirt mainly in red or blue, indicating the woman's religion. Many accessories are added, such as a bib, corselet, stockings or shawl.

The traditional Alsatian headdress, consisting of a black cap with a long strip of black fabric sewn onto it, forming a knot above the head and falling down the back, is a further highlight of the outfit.

Turckheim

the pride of the Alsatian vineyard

The lights and colours of the vineyards provide the charming village of Turckheim with an aura of serenity. Its remarkable and typically Alsatian architectural heritage as well as its lively and enduring traditions make it an unmissable stopover.

The legend of the dragon of Turckheim

"A long time ago, when the Rhine Valley formed a large lake, a stray dragon emerged from the waters to settle on the shore at Letzenberg, near the present-day village of Turckheim. Tired and soothed by the gentle tranquillity of the place, he dozed off. The sun took advantage of his rest to shine more and more brightly to melt his scales. A battle of fire broke out between the dragon and the shining star. The dragon was angry and spat flames at the burning sun, and eventually its blood was spilled all around the place called Drachenloch, or dragon's hole. Centuries later, once the waters had receded, people planted vines on this beautiful hill. The land, fertilized by the dragon's blood, gave birth to one of the Alsace Grands Crus: the BRAND."

An eco-responsible Christmas

The cups in circulation at the Christmas markets are all returnable. The €2 deposit that you will be asked to pay when you buy your mulled wine or hot chocolate will be returned to you by all the traders at the Christmas markets who sell this type of product. The washing of the bottles is carried out by disabled people from a local workshop and several tons of plastic are saved every year.

In the Colmar region, from 23 November to 31 December, many villages are celebrating Christmas.

Time to eat! A work of art on the plate...

Discover Alsace's great culinary talents. Three renowned starred chefs run their restaurant in the heart of Colmar and offer you a tasting experience in an elegant setting.

"Taste above all" for Chef Lefebvre at L'Atelier du Peintre (1* Michelin).

"An evolving cuisine that makes local products vibrate" for Chef Girardin (1* Michelin) in his eponymous restaurant.

"Local products and flavours from around the world" for Chef Schillinger at JY'S (2* Michelin).

Taste In the kitchen of Mamama*

The love of quality is not only cultivated by our starred chefs and many gourmet addresses give pride of place to "home-made" food. From the traditional winstub to the restaurant that carries the flavours of Mamama, Colmar is full of must-

Tasty Alsatian winter...

In this enchanting and gourmet period, winter flavours are numerous. Each of them, whether savoury or sweet, will bring you a welcome comfort.

Before sitting down to eat, warming up with friends with a glass of mulled wine, white or red, is an essential step to get you into the Christmas mood. With the family, the children will enjoy an inimitable hot apple juice!

A festive Alsatian table will offer you the most delicate dishes such as the foie gras terrine, whose regional origin dates back to the 17th century!

But Alsace is also an invitation to conviviality and sharing around warm dishes: the unavoidable sauerkraut or bäckeeffe whose smells of cooking can only stimulate your appetite!

In these delicious scents, you will be conquered by the bewitching smells of spices: cloves, cinnamon, aniseed... Spices which make the richness and sweetness of our desserts in particular.

Take a bite out of a tasty gingerbread or lebkuche with its eye-catching shapes and decorations. Give in to the sweet temptation of the famous bredala. Do you dare to experiment with each of the possible varieties of these small typical Alsatian biscuits?

Dried fruits are also invited on our tables and in our pastries: berawecka or stollen will happily accompany an infusion during a generous snack.

Finally, celebrate St. Nicholas' Day by biting into a manala, a little man made of brioche; or even the New Year by tasting a Nei johr's wegala, literally a "little brioche for the New Year".

DID YOU KNOW? ?
There are more than a hundred kinds of Bredalas (cookies)

Land of Grands Crus!

Wettolsheim, the leading wine-producing commune in the Haut-Rhin, has two Grands Crus: Steingrubler and Pfersigberg. These two Grands Crus produce excellent "late harvest" and "Sélection Grains Nobles" wines.

Emblematic of the Alsace Wine Route, Turckheim is a land whose history is intimately linked to the wine. Its Grand Cru Brand benefits from an exceptional amount of sunshine.

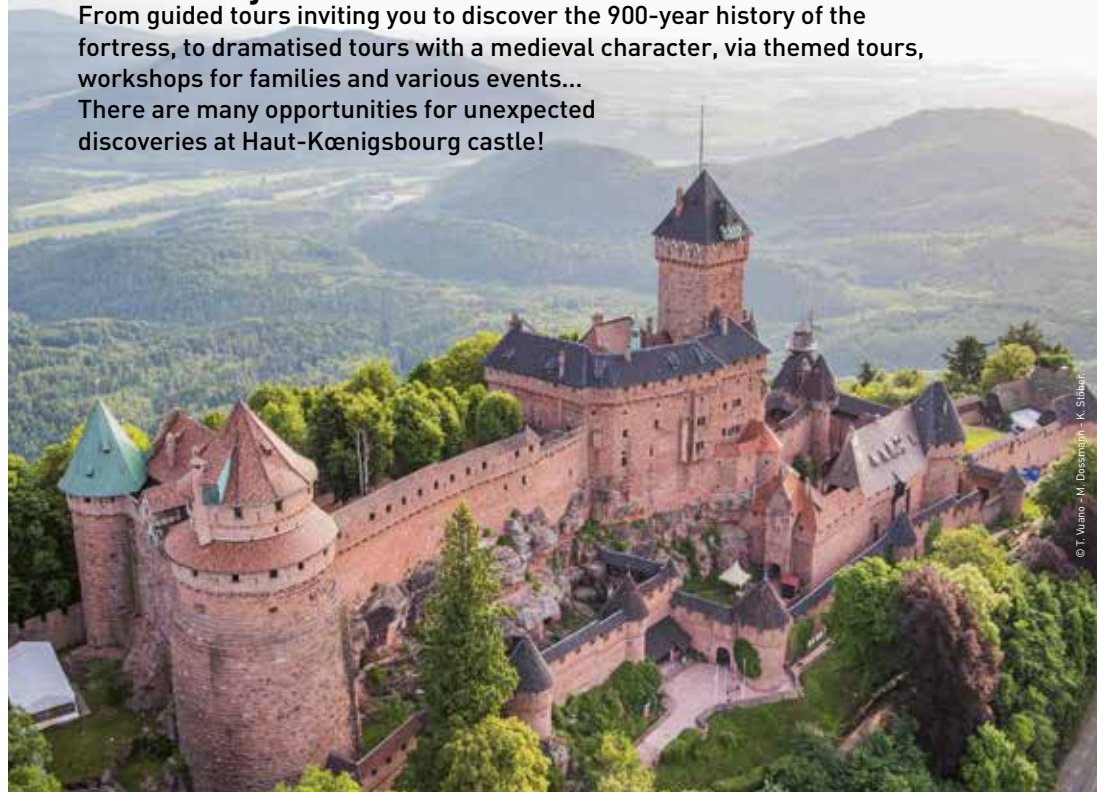

Nestled on a hillside, the lovely village of Niedermorschwihr is the birthplace of the Grand Cru Sommerberg. Facing due south, it is the perfect place to grow Riesling, one of the most important grape variety from Alsace.

In Ingersheim, the Grand Cru Florimont is characterised by its size and generosity. Situated on south-facing slopes and protected by the Vosges mountains, this Grand Cru is blessed with privileged climatic conditions. Not forgetting the famous Hengst from Wintzenheim.

More than just a monument!

From guided tours inviting you to discover the 900-year history of the fortress, to dramatised tours with a medieval character, via themed tours, workshops for families and various events... There are many opportunities for unexpected discoveries at Haut-Kœnigsbourg castle!

How to choose your rental

What is a bed and breakfast ?

A B&B is a room in the home of a local resident. The latter provides a reception and offers certain services such as breakfast and household linen. Maximum 5 rooms and 15 people per structure.

What is a "chambre chez l'habitant ?"

The "chambre chez l'habitant" refers to rooms whose owners offer more than 5 guest rooms for rent and/or have a capacity of more than 15 people, (and which are not therefore classified as a hotel).

What is a seasonal rental?

Seasonal rentals are tourist accommodations that are not classified. It is usually a furnished house or flat rented to a visiting customer who has exclusive use of it for the duration of his stay.

What is a furnished tourist accommodation (1 to 5 stars)?

The furnished tourist accommodation is a seasonal rental that benefits from an official grading recognising the quality of its infrastructure.

What is a tourist residence or hotel residence?

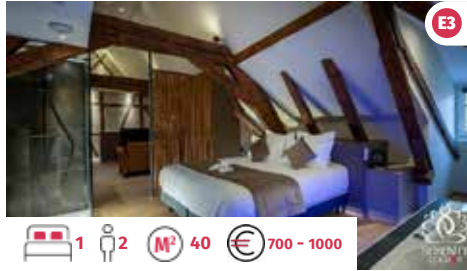

The tourist residence and the hotel residence are groups of rooms or flats with common facilities and services: reception, bar, swimming pool, laundry, etc.

Booking

We advise you to contact the owner of the room or the furnished accommodation directly for any information or reservation. The rates given below are sent to the Tourist Office by the owner: they are indicative and the Tourist Office cannot be held responsible.

Si, après avoir choisi un service de voyage et l'avoir payé, vous réservez des services de voyage supplémentaires pour votre voyage ou séjour de vacances par l'intermédiaire de l'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région, vous NE bénéficierez PAS des droits applicables aux forfaits au titre de la directive (UE) 2015/2302 et de l'article L.211-2 du code du tourisme. Toutefois, si vous réservez des services de voyage supplémentaires au cours de la même visite ou du même contact avec l'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région, les services de voyage feront partie d'une prestation de voyage liée. Dans ce cas, l'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région dispose, comme l'exige le droit de l'Union Européenne, d'une protection afin de rembourser les sommes que vous lui avez versées pour des services qui n'ont pas été exécutés en raison de son insolvabilité. L'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région a souscrit une protection contre l'insolvabilité auprès de l'APST (Association Professionnelle de Solidarité du Tourisme, 15 Av. Carnot 75017 Paris). Les voyageurs peuvent prendre contact avec cette entité (15 Av. Carnot 75017 Paris - Tél. 01 44 09 25 35 - info@apst.travel) si les services de voyage leur sont refusés en raison de l'insolvabilité de l'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région. Remarque : cette protection contre l'insolvabilité ne s'applique pas aux contrats conclus avec des parties autres que l'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région qui peuvent être exécutés en dépit de l'insolvabilité de l'Office de Tourisme de Colmar et sa région.
